

Will Rogers Memorial Museum & Birthplace Ranch

SATURDAY JUNE 24, 2017

- Living history ranch and log-walled, two-story, post-Civil War home where Will Rogers was born November 4, 1879, son of a Cherokee senator, judge, and cattleman. The birthplace house is authentically conserved and open.
- Era-correct rustic barn with a climate-controlled classroom with video program operating all day.
- Longhorn cattle and other livestock on a 400-acre spread located on Lake Oologah.
- The ranch always has been in the ownership of the Rogers family or as a donated national icon.
- The Will Rogers Memorial Museum is a 19,052-square-foot (1,770 m²) museum in Claremore, Oklahoma that memorializes entertainer Will Rogers. The museum houses artifacts, memorabilia, photographs, and manuscripts pertaining to Rogers' life, and documentaries, speeches, and movies starring Rogers are shown in a theater.^[1] Rogers' tomb is located on its 20-acre (8 ha) grounds overlooking Claremore and Rogers State University.
- Until March 7, 2016, the museum was owned and managed by a private organization, the Will Rogers Memorial Commission. On that date, the Governor of Oklahoma signed legislation to transfer the property and all its assets to the Oklahoma Historical Society, a state agency.
